

November 10, 2025: On the Best Path Forward is Suing the Department of Justice

I am considering the filing of a lawsuit against the Department of Justice regarding its internal policy to not prosecute sitting presidents for crimes they are committing.

I am currently being harmed by this policy and have no means by which I can find relief except from the Department of Justice setting aside this foolish policy.

This internal policy is creating a two-tier form of justice that is being exploited by the current administration and causing direct harm to me inside of my home.

I believe that suing the Department of Justice is the first step to securing a better life for myself and my family.

Sincerely,

Chris Carlin
